Dear Friends,

Juba, South Sudan

In January, I was able to travel to Juba, South Sudan, to work with my friend, Gasim Dut Domkok. He and his wife served as missionaries in Juba for many years, but due to the civil war, they were forced back to the States. Now, Gasim is returning to Juba to rebuild the ministry and the Christian school and to start a Bible college.

Bro. Gasim is spending time in Juba working on the school, the college, and the church, as well as repairing the building and making plans for a radio tower. I was able to have two training sessions with the future students of New Testament Baptist Bible College. In March, the Bible college launched, with nearly 30 students. In addition to converts from Bro. Gasim's ministry, New Testament Baptist Bible College is recruiting students from several surrounding churches.

Pray for this amazing ministry and Teaching All Nations!

To God be the glory,
